

Grammatical redundancy by condition

Higher values mean more grammatical redundancy

Interpretation: Let's say a participant always taps a quarternote and then an eighth note. This means the quarternote–eighth note combination is redundant, as it could have been one symbol, so G is higher. The more different combinations of symbols a participant uses, the lower the G score.